MR. TALMAGE'S ALLEGED PERJURY. THE NEW EVIDENCE DISCOVERED BY DR. VAN DYKE-NO EXPLANATION YET OFFERED BY THE

ACCUSED CLEEGYMAN.

ACCUSED CLEGGMAN.

The publication yesterday of proceedings and evidence is dicating the probability of the reopening of the case against the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, who was tried before the Broeklyn Presbytery in 1879 for deceit and faisebood, and acquitted, took the friends of Mr. Talmage by surprise. Apparently no one was more astonished at the publication of the proceedings of the informal meeting of some members of the Brocklyn Presbytery, at which the newly found evidence against Mr. Talmage was profined, than those persons who were at the meeting. The Rev. Dr. Henry J. Van Dyke was not at home yesterday, but his son explained to a Tribunk reporter his father's part in reopening a very unpleasunt affair. Dr. Van Dyke, he said, recently came into possession of certain memorandums signed by Mr. Talmage, which apparently convicted him of having committed perjury at his trial. Feeling bound in honor to inform Mr. Talmage of the fact, Dr. Van Dyke wrote to him December 4 with the view of giving him an opportunity to explain. Mr. Talmage took no notice of the communication, and Dr. Van Dyke, feeling that he could not remain the sole custodian of the papers, called a meeting of a number of the members of the Presbytery, with a view of making known the nature of the papers and throwing the responsibility for action or refusal to act upon the meeting.

The meeting was held D cember 15. Dr. Van ing the responsibility for action or refusal to act upon the meeting was held D cember 15. Dr. Van Dyke produced a synopsis of the testimony of Mr. Talmace given before the Presbytery in April, 1879, in which he denied that he had signed a contract with the owners of The Advance before his withdrawal from the editorial chair of The Christian at Work. Dr. Van Dyke produced two contracts between C. H. Howard & Co., publishers of The Advance, and Mr. Talmage. The first of these was dated Brooklyn, October 4, 1876, and contained this article of agreement:

MR. WALLING'S DEFENCE.

Superintendent Walking appeared yesterday before the committee of the Police Board appointed to investigate the charge against him in connection with his election order. He defended his right to issue any orders he thought necessary without instruction from the Board. He denied that he had intended to intimidate voters by his order, or had issued it at the desire or dictation of anybody not connected with the department. He explained that on the night before election he had been informed that a private individual had biased forty warrants for the arrest of registered voters in the Twenty-seventh Election District of the XXVIIth Assembly District alone, and had demanded that officers be sent to the polling piaces on election day to serve the war ants if the men attempted to vote. Captain Robbins had refused to do this, and Mr. Walling approved his action. He then decided to warn the force that such a proceeding wguld be twrong, and did so in a general order. He intended to maintain the principle that no private individual could be recognized assa proper bearer of warrants to be served by the police force.

ommittee on the Funding bil, and to limit the debate o one hour. This intermotion met with a great deat of possition. After discussion the motion to limit the dephosilion. After distance and a determined to make the most was defeated.

Mr. WEAVER (Gibk., Iowa) said it was proposed to are this ball through between now and adjournment, could not be done, and he protested against the at-

Mr. KEIFER (Rep., Obio) complained that the gentle man from New-York shound bring the bill up at this lat-nay and put if through without any kind of considera-

Another motion, made by Mr. WOCD, to limit the lebase to two hours being voted down, the House went nto Committee of the Waole on the Funding bill.

Mr. GH-LETE (Dem., Jowa) declared the bill to be in he interest of banders.

Mr. MILLS—The gentleman need not lecture me about the items of which I may avail my self, and he need not nermit his zea to serve the synchestes and bankers of Wall-st, to lead him so far as to mant a member on this floor. I have some Parliamentary rights, and I will exercise every light before the gentleman small prostrate the whole House before the operators of Wall Street.

Mr. F. WOOD—I had notice served on me to-day by the leaders of a small parity that every Parliamentary strategy and right they could possibly command they would exercise to prevent the passage of any Funding bill.

would exercise to prevent the passage of any table hill.

Mr. WEAVER—And I renew that declaration.

Mr. F. WOOD—The gentlemen assume that position publicly and openly, and on their heads resis the responsibility.

Mr. WEAVER—We can bear it.

Mr. F. WOOD—I am controlled by the majority of the Committee on Ways and Means, which has reported this bill to the House. I am not wedded to the details of the bill, but I am wedden to the details of the bill, but I am wedden to the cessity of, before the holiday vacation, reaching a conclusion that will not in any way dishonor our credit conclusion that well not in any way dishonor our credit number of sheences.

Mr. DUNNELL (Rep., Minn.), a member of the Committee on Was and Means, bore testimony to the fact that the charman of the Committee (Mr. Wood) had done his duty, and rothing less than his duty, in presented to the committee of the committee done his duty, and nothing less than his duty, in pressing action on the bill.

Mr. RANDALL (Dem., Penn.) said that there was no measure more important than the one now under consideration. The House was not bound to wait for gentlemen who desired to speak by the nour. It was their duty to be here. Public business should not be delayed. He thought it desirable that the House should proceed to consider the bill under the five-munute rule. He thought that the sum provided for could be reduced to $600,000,000. He would like to put an auxiliary power into the taking of those bonds—a legislation which would compet the National banks to take the entire amount of bonds which was required as a security for their circulation in 3 per cent bonds. He would say to the banks that Congress proposed by legislation to change the character of the guarantee the people would have, and, instead of it being in 6, 5, 4½ and 4 per cent bonds, that it should all be in 3 per cent. The banks having that they could come with a very much better grace and ask for a reduction of the caxation on circulation and deposits.

Mr. HISCOCK (Rep., N. Y.) inquired what the result would be in the event of the banks refusing to accept that.

Mr. RANDALL replied that he had always seen banks would be in the event.

Mr. RANDALL replied that he had always seen banks study their own interests. He thought that he spoke for the banks of Philadelphia when he said that as far as he was advised they were perfectly willing, as far as they could under the law, to permit that kind of deposits. In that way a market would immediately be made for the honds.

Y. V. intimated, his concurmade for the honds.

Mr. RANDALL wanted to know whether this bill wanta.

Mr. RANDALL wanted to know whether this bill allowed commissions.

Mr. F. WOOD replied that in this bill a of 1 per cent was allowed for the cost of disposing of the bonds, but that did not include the cost of printing.

Mr. CLAFLIN (Rep., Mass.) remarked that the cost of printing would be about a of 1 per cent.

Mr. RANDALL—Then let us call it "printing," because an allowance for commission leads to abuses. He also wanted to know whether any provision of the bill looked to the dovetailing of interests.

Mr. WOOD replied that the bill protected the Treasury in that respect, and that provision was made for the adiustment of interests.

Mr. RANDALL remarked that he had been mable to find out from the Treasury Department the amount of double interest paid out in the refunding process of 1879. He wanted, however, to have the law guarded in the three following particulars: No commission to be paid; no counie interest to be allowed; and the benefit of the premium (if any) to revert to the people.

ALMOST A FIGHT. Mr. WEAVER made a humerous speech, arraigning the Democratic party for inconsistency on the financial question, and stating that that party, in its State and National platforms, encamped every four years on the ground where the Republicans had encamped four years Mr. BLAND (Dem., Mo.) inquired for what Presidential anddate Mr. Weaver had voted in 1876. Mr. WEAVER-For Rutherford B. Hayes, and I am sorry for it.

Mr. BIAND—And you have good reason. [Laughter.]
The discussion, which was very noisy and irregular, drifted into the question as to the responsibility for the demonetization and the credit for the remonetization of silver, the Democrats casting discredit on the Republicans for the former and cistuing for themselves Mr. REED (Rep., Mc.) suggested that all parties noted coolishiv then, but that the Republicans had the good cheated when they bought him. [Laughter.] He did not charge inconsistency on the Democratic party itself, out on its leaders—on the men who ran with the hounds and held with the hore.

Mr. SPARKS (Dem., III.) got the floor and alluded to a circumstance in which Mr. Weaver and used an offer-sive term to him. (That he was "crazy.") He went on, in a good-natured manner, to excuse the offensive remark.

in a good-natured manner, to excuse the off-converemark.

Mr. WEAVER replied in the same tone of pleasantry, and intimating that no one could venture to insain thin intentionally by ascribing falsehood to him without feeling the force of his (Mr. Weaver's) rightsram, [Laughter and uproar.]

Mr. PFARKS, on hearing the latter remark, changed his tone from one of pleasantry to one of anger, and he said: "I spurn with contempt the reach of his arm." The reach of his arm would affect one as fittle as it affected the last Presidential election.

Mr. WEAVER (still in a joeniar tone)—Well, that was sufficient. I would not hurt a bar of his head. [Laughter.] His apology was ample and I accept it, but I caulion him against the further use of the term "false-hood" or "lic." I would assulf any man who would apply such a term to me off-ensively. The gentleman has alluded to my weight, but I ware him that my fighting weight is 185 pounds. [Shouts of laughter.]

Mr. SPARKS—Does the gentleman say that I used the word "false-hood" of the word "false-hood" of the WAVER—Sat I understood.

ord "falsehood '1 Mr. WEAVER—So I understood. Mr. SPARKS—Ob, no, yours was certainly the first flens ve word. Mr.WEAYER-(still good humoredly)-We are all right

Mr. SPARKS—You misurderstood me. I said that you were starting what was not true, and you were wanting in the qualities of a gentleman in your failing to remedy it. [Excitement and confusion.] That was all that there was of it, but it was developed at the last election that you wanted those qualities.

Mr. WEAVER—(now thoroughly angered and excited)—I denonnee the gentleman personally as a har on the floor of the House.

Mr. SPARKS—(equally excited)—You are a secondrel and a viliain.

Mr. SPARKS—(equally excited)—You are a secondrei and a viliam.

Mr. Weaver thereuson, amid great uproor, left the place where he was standing and advanced menacingly toward Mr. Sparks, who, in his turn, moved toward Mr. Weaver; but both were immediately surrounded by members, who prevented them getting to close quarters, and made them not on their coats, watch each was in the act of taking off as he advanced into the area. Of course the greatest courts—ho and disorder prevailed on the floor and in the calleries; but in the midst of it the speaker took the chair and called upon the Sergeani-at-Arms to do his duty. Just then, however, there was nothing particular to be done by that official, as the combatants had been removed by their respective friends, and there was no dancer of their assaulting each other. After the disorder had subsided, Mr. Covert resumed the chair, the Committee rose, and the House, at 5 p. m., adjourned until to-merrow.

An "old subscriber 'of The TherBune, who is also a stockholder in the Ruby Silver Mining and Smelting Company, in requesting light upon the peculiar course now being pursued by some of its officers, makes the following statements: "The Ruby Silver Mining and Smelting Company was gotten up within the last year or two for the purpose of working some of the new discoveres in the Elk Mountains, Colorado. The 'Ruby' vein stands in the very first rank in Colorado for the richness and great value of its ores. About a year ago one of the original stockholders, a Mr. Fargo, sold several thousand shares in New-York and elsewhere. In October last the directors of the company held a meeting, and under the pretext that they were in want of additional working capital—although it can be shown that such was not the case—passed a resolution directing that a certain number of shares which had been reserved should be divided among their stockholders pro rata, each stockholder paying at the rate of $2 for each share so allotted him. About a month after, in November, the president, Samuel W. Allerton, one of Chicago's millionaires, wrote to the holders of the Fargo stock, saying that 'Mr. Fargo had made a claim that when he sold his stock he did not sell his right to any such future allotments, and that the company's counsel, a Mr. Small, had advised that the claim was a valid one. He (Allerton) therefore refunded the money paid for the allotments, and refused to issue the certificates. About this time the president of the company forwarded a circular to the stockholders giving a statement of the finances of the company, and of this ten tons had been mined by the company, and of this ten tons had been mined by the company and of this ten tons had been mined by the company and of this t
